

Longtharai Spices

The image features a dark, almost black, textured background. A vibrant red powder is scattered across the surface, creating a gradient from the bottom right towards the top left. Interspersed among the red powder are numerous small, bright yellow and orange seeds, likely from a chili pepper, some of which are whole and others are broken. The overall composition is abstract and visually striking due to the high contrast between the dark background and the bright red and yellow elements.
